SMALL AREA ABLATIVE RESURFACING & LESION REMOVAL

ABOUT TREATMENT

The CO₂ Laser resurfacing laser that can vaporize the topmost layer of skin in a controlled fashion. This makes it a great treatment for many skin imperfections. The CO₂ laser can treat many different types of raised or thickened areas where the alternative would be surgical removal. Small area resurfacing is also achievable.

AFTER CARE

- Overall Goal: The overall goal of caring for these spots will be to avoid any crusting or scabbing. Crusting and scabbing can lead to delayed and suboptimal healing.
- Moisturize with ointment. A layer of ointment should be on treated areas at all times until they have healed.
- Examples include Vaseline, Aquaphor, and Vaniply ointment. Do not allow areas to dry out.
- Cover Areas if Possible. Band-Aids can also help keep the area moist and clean. A layer of ointment should be covered with a Band-Aid when possible. If there are too many spots or the size makes covering difficult, then ointment should be applied at more frequent intervals.
- A gentle cleanser. May be used to wash area while bathing but avoid any rubbing or scrubbing. Pat dry.
- Vinegar Water Soaks. These will help break up any crusting that may be forming and also kill harmful bacteria. They can be performed anywhere from 2-4 times a day. See instructions below
- Makeup. It is recommended to wait until spots have healed over post treatment before applying base or foundation makeup directly over the spots. Makeup can be applied around spots while healing.
- Transition to regular facial moisturizer once treated spots have healed over and are no longer able to crust or scab.
